Love is a touch of loneliness, like a cigarette squeezed between your fingers, except for the brief moment of burning. Where it came from is an unknown corner. Waiting for a finger to pick it up, and where it is empty gray smoke, like the death of life, at the moment of death, it is still lonely. If you are not talking about the look, just talk about the essence. Love and cigarettes are basically the same. For example, both parts need a polished spark. Sparks of love are generated between the opposite sexes. From one point of view, two interacting and diametrically opposite magnetic fields are electromagnetically reflected at a particular moment, thereby stimulating the secretion of hormones, which eventually leads to the love of two or one person. The fireworks for cigarettes are produced by the actions of matches or lighters, which belong to the scientific category, but are replaced by chemical reactions. Similarly, love and cigarettes also have a burning process Marlboro Lights. Time depends on the individual's character and ideas. The best way to smoke is to breathe slowly and gently, taste gently. The best way to treat love is to let it happen and not have to force it. We all know that everything has a beginning and an end. This is true of cigarettes, and so is love. Disillusionment of love is like soot, and it will eventually fall into the dust without a trace. At that time, it was nothing but habits and emotions, even commitments and responsibilities, that held the two people together, but it had nothing to do with love. The coming of love, like buying cigarettes mokingusacigarettes.com, is unpredictable Newport Cigarettes Coupons. When you buy a pack of cigarettes from a street vendor's booth, or from a fantastic mall, you don't know which one will be your love or if it is something. Just like walking on the street or thinking of a hot afternoon, you don't know if you light a cigarette. There is no sign of love coming. Without pre-treatment you met love, or lit a cigarette. Love and cigarettes are just as short. The only difference between them is that you can smoke one by one, but you can never enjoy love again and again. Even though you have grown immortal and can live for thousands of years, the love that truly belongs to you only once is the only time you burn in the only one and then dies. Of course, love will not leave the world, but it will leave you and return to its eternal and lonely waiting to see another person's burning. Loving someone is really a lonely thing. Nobody likes the endless loneliness. So in my heart we still like this. Though, the love that comes and goes in a hurry makes people always miss endlessly, but this is short-lived, but more in line with human nature and needs. We can't imagine a cigarette that will never be smoked. In the same way that we cannot achieve a love that is always passionate, it is not only incredible, contrary to common sense, but also unbearable. So let love be lonely, in a quiet corner, quietly waiting for a polished spark, the moment it burns, it's like the cigarette squeezed between your fingers.
